

Battle of the billboards

SIR, It appears that J. Winkett (Letters, February 25) is completely misled to think that the BUGA UP people could be in any way responsible for defacing war memorials, private houses, fences, etc.

Doesn't he know that BUGA UP activities concentrate only on billboards, as even the initials, which they always put on each of their messages, imply: Billboard - Utilising Graffitists Against Unhealthy Promotions?

Had the printed billboards promoted a realistic view of alcohol and tobacco, rather than pushing the commercial interest of these drugs, BUGA UP people would certainly lay down their spraying cans and go home, fully satisfied.
